FOOD SALE LASTS ONLY THREE DAYS

Orders For Army Surplus Will be Received at Postoffice or by Carriers, Aug. 18, 19, 20

SOLD ONLY IN BULK LOTS

Postmaster's Instructions and Price List Received—Shipments From Chicago, 3rd Zone

The sale of surplus foodstuff by the war department will begin on August 18 (next Monday) and continue for only three days, according to instructions received today by Postmaster G. P. Hunt, which also included order blanks containing the prices of all articles for sale and the amount which will be allotted to the Rushville office.

The distributing point for Rushville will be Chicago, which is in the third zone. This means that the parcel post will be six cents for the first pound and two cents for each additional pound. For example, bacon as listed by the government, will cost 37c and a fraction a pound, delivered to the door of the consumer, including parcel post charges.

The food will be sold only in the case, bag or sack, as the case may be, and persons who do not wish to buy that much may join with neighbors or friends in ordering a case.

Using bacon as an example, a case containing six 12-pound cans, weighs gross 102 pounds and sells for $24.90, which amounts to $4.15 a can or 34c a pound. The parcel post charges on a can would be 22.08, which amounts to 35c a can or $3 a pound.

All orders from consumers must be accompanied with the cash, which must include the parcel post. Carriers in the city or rural delivery may accept orders in writing. Consumers must keep a copy of the order given to the carrier, upon which the carrier will receipt for cash paid. Orders received at the postoffice, whether direct from the consumer or from a carrier, must be filled in the order received, as in the case of a shortage of any item or items the first orders received will be given preference, and on any orders that can not be filled the money will be refunded promptly. The postmaster is instructed to make a requisition each night of the three days, for the amount of foodstuff ordered during the day.

Material which the consumer claims is damaged or spoiled will be replaced upon affidavit of the consumer, countersigned by the postmaster.

The Rushville postoffice is allotted the following amounts:

Baked beans—1092, 1-lb. cans; 2, 2-lb. cans; 1752, 3-lb. cans.
Stringless beans, 246, 2-lb. cans.
Corned beef—1578, 1-lb. cans; 896, 2-lb. cans; 204, 6-lb. cans.
Roast beef—1242, 1-lb. cans; 380, 2-lb. cans; 120, 6-lb. cans.
Cherries—84, 2-lb. cans.
Corn—2-lb. cans, 2268 cans.
Corn beef hash—924, 1-lb. cans; 12, 2-lb. cans.
Peas—2844 of 2-lb. cans.
Issue beans—1700 pounds.

PILOT FRIEND IN SMASH-UP

Accident at Connersville Makes it Impossible For Plane to Come

Rushville people who were planning on an airplane ride today were disappointed, because yesterday afternoon Pilot Royden Friend and passenger, D. E. Trusler of Connersville, were making an ascent from a pasture on the William Shockey's place south of Connersville, when the plane veered, struck a tree then a telephone pole and fell on its back in the road. The men were not seriously injured, but the plane was damaged considerably, and several weeks will be required to make repairs are being made. The ships belongs to the Rainbow Aviation company and was advertised to come here today.

ORDERS PROBE OF COAL CONSPIRACY

Senate Votes For Full Investigation of Alleged Combination to Keep Up Prices.

FOOD CONTROL BILL ARGUED

Vote on Amendments Extending the Scope of Measure as Suggested by Attorney General Held Up.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Aug. 15.—The senate today ordered an investigation into the alleged profiteering in coal and into charges of conspiracy to keep up prices.

The Frelinghuysen resolution adopted today without debate, directed the senate interstate commerce committee to make inquiry.

The committee postponed until Tuesday action of proposed legislation aimed at profiteering in food and clothing.

The committee had under consideration today amendments to the food control bill proposed by Attorney General Palmer.

The committee had decided on a vote today but after much wrangling, Committeeman Gronna announced that the vote would be postponed. He said amendments would be defeated if a vote was taken today.

Gronna proposed amendments to exempt farmers, gardeners, live stock producers and co-operative associations from the proposed penalty for profiteering. He declared farmers proposed Palmer's amendment to the bill to safeguard them.

Senate Ransdell, Louisiana, declared that any attempt to broaden the scope of the food control act would be bitterly fought on the senate floor.

Cox Asks Seizure of Meat

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 15—Governor Cox, Ohio, today asked United States Attorney General Palmer to seize 2,420,000 pounds of meat stored in Ohio by several big Chicago packers on charges of "willful violation and even defiance of the law."

Cox said the meat was owned by Swift and Company, Morris and Company, Wilson and Company and Brant and Company. The governor urged Palmer to take immediate action to seize the meat and prosecute the packers.

In addition 32 affidavits charging 32 Ohio persons with violation of the state cold storage act, were signed.

"Our investigation followed unmistakable evidence in "wilful violation and defiance of the law on the part of the large packing houses, particularly upon food supplies being shipped from Chicago to Cleveland, returned again to Chicago, and reshipped back to Cleveland," says Gov. Cox.

"In behalf of public interest I suggest prosecution on receipt from

RESTAURANTS ARE GIVEN CLEAN BILL

M. F. Lovett Says He Finds Price of Egg Sandwiches Are Not Raised as Alleged

COMPLAINT TO L. ERT SLACK

Grocers Say Government Should Investigate Wholesalers Before Making Sugar Price 11c

M. F. Lovett of Carthage, federal food administrator for Rush county during the war, who has consented to act in his old capacity during the campaign to reduce the cost of living, has investigated the charges of profiteering by restaurants in Rushville and has found them unfounded, he announced today.

It will be recalled that a few days ago, L. Ert Slack, United States district attorney, gave out a story to Indianapolis newspapers and press associations that he had received complaints about restaurant prices in Rushville, and he referred the matter to Mr. Lovett, in a letter received Wednesday.

"I herewith enclose a postal card which states in substance that certain restaurants in Rushville have recently raised the price of egg sandwiches from 10c to 15c. Please made a thorough investigation of this matter and I suggest that you not only report the result of your investigation to his office, but that you make public the result of your investigation, giving names, prices, etc., and that no one be spared publicity where they are profiteering."

"I have called on each of the three restaurants and find they have not raised the price on egg sandwiches," said Mr. Lovett today. "I am told that Connersville newspapers, also state papers, have published this report. In justice to your restaurants I think this report should be denied.

Mr. Lovett also announced while here that M. V. Spivey had consented to act as city food administrator for Rushville. Mr. Spivey served in this capacity during the war, succeeding Charles A. Frazee when he was elected county treasurer.

Local retail dealers complain they have not had a fair deal in the publicity which has been given food prices in Rushville. They assert that the stories which have been published in Indianapolis newspapers and elsewhere in the state have left the impression that they are all profiteers when the complaint made to the district attorney only charged that the price of egg sandwiches had been raised five cents.

When the facts are all in concerning sugar Rushville grocers assert that the stories which have been published in Indianapolis newspapers and elsewhere in the state have left the impression that they are all profiteers when the complaint made to the district attorney only charged that the price of egg sandwiches had been raised five cents.

When the facts are all in concerning sugar, Rushville grocers assert that fair-minded people can not charge them with profiteering. If selling sugar without making a cent is profiteering, then they are guilty, they say. Grocers believe, before the government fixes the fair retail price of sugar at eleven cents on the assumption that wholesalers are selling it at ten cents a pound, they had better learn for sure what the jobbers actually are charging. As a matter of fact, Rushville dealers said today, they can occasionally get barrel sugar at ten cents plus the freight, but that it is so scarce, they have to buy package sugar most of the time at prices ranging from 11 to 11½ cents. Few grocers, if any, have ever sold sugar above twelve cents, and they

BOTH SATISFIED WITH THE VERDICT

After Ten Hours Deliberation, Jury Awards Henry Ford 6 Cents Damages Against Tribune.

TRIAL COST STATE $10,000

Defendant Must Pay Manufacturer $50 Toward Expenses—$5,000 a Day Expense to Litigants

(By United Press.)

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 15.—Henry Ford, millionaire automobile manufacturer, today stood victor in his million dollar libel suit against the Chicago Tribune.

After ten hours deliberation the jury announced the verdict of 6 cents damages, here last night.

Attorneys for both Ford and the Tribune seemed today to be satisfied with the verdict.

Under Michigan laws Ford will receive only $50 from the Tribune toward paying court expenses.

It has cost the state of Michigan about $10,000, attorneys estimated today.

Costs to the litigants were estimated at $5,000 a day during the progress of the hearing alone.

The Ford-Tribune case was one of the most novel in legal history. It dated back to early 1916 when the Chicago Tribune published the now famous "Ford is an Anarchist," editorial, based on certain Ford signed advertisements against preparedness.

Ford demanded retraction. The newspaper refused, declaring in a letter that although Ford might not be a bomb thrower anarchist, he was against the government.

Suit was filed shortly afterward in United States district court, northeastern district court, northeastern district of Illinois, before Judge K. M. Landis.

Answer was filed and Ford demurred to the answer. The demurrer was under consideration when Ford dismissed the suit.

Shortly afterward a new suit was filed in the circuit court of Wayne county, (Detroit) thus bringing into the case Solomon Bros., Detroit news-dealers, who sold the Tribune as co-defendants.

Almost fifteen weeks ago the trial started here after a change of venue had been granted the Tribune, which contended a fair trial would not be possible at Detroit, Ford's home town.

Through the weeks attorneys threshed over the evidence with but little to break the monotony until Ford himself took the stand a few weeks ago. He remained for seven days of vexatious questioning.

During this time he admitted advertisements fighting what he termed "over preparedness" were written for him by his "peace secretary," Theodore De Lavigne and only signed by Ford.

Attorney Stevenson of the Tribune, by much questioning brought him to the admission that he knew little about history and politics even though "he attempted to educate the people to his preparedness plans, and was candidate for United States senatorial nomination recently."

Ford admitted he never had heard of John Andre, said he thought Benedict Arnold was a writer and that a mobile army was a large army. He knew, however, the intricacies of mechanics and was much more at ease when the questioning drifted to subjects relating to his life study.

The manufacturer on the stand was not the self-reliant, unobtrusive worker he is at his plant. Clearly he was nervous, unacquainted with his surroundings too willing to answer questions that the trial might be speeded even at cost to himself. Failure to wait for the guiding advice of his attorney got him in many a tangle. He would sit

URGE PASSAGE BY THE LEGISLATURE

County Teachers' Institute Indorses Fedeal Suffrage Amendment in Resolutions Today

CLOSING SESSION IS HELD

Vote of Thanks Extended to Institute Lecturers and Chautauqua Association For Courtesies

This morning concluded the meeting of the Rush county Teachers' Institute, which has been holding regular morning sessions all week in the sheriff's office of the court house. This morning addresses were given by Prof. George D. Wham and Supt. E. J. Llewelyn, and following the lectures, the teachers adopted five resolutions, which are given below. Officers are not elected, as the county superintendent presides as chairman, and he appoints the secretary-treasurer.

The resolutions adopted this morning were as follows: "Resolved that the excellent address given us during the present session of the Rush County Intitute have greatly heightened in us the great responsibility and privilege of the public school teacher and that we are thereby better prepared to enter our life of service the coming school year. That we extend a vote of hearty appreciation to Prof. George D. Wham, Prof. E. J. Llewelyn and Miss Marlatt for their inspiring addresses and personal interest in our institute.

"Resolved, that we deplore the present illness of our county superintendent, C. M. George and hope for his speedy recovery. That we tender to Prof. W. E. Wagoner, who has conducted the institute in such a pleasant and business-like manner in the absence of the superintendent a vote of sincere thanks.

"Resolved, That we congratulate the Chautauqua Association for the splendid program of the week and thank it for the many favors and courtesies shown us.

"Resolved, That we favor and earnestly petition our school officials to provide complete medical and physical culture supervision for our schools.

"Recognizing that the call has come to us all alike, both man and woman, to cherish as we never have done before, the liberties which we have inherited, as the sacred possession of us all, to be held in our keeping, believing that we can best teach ideals of citizenship if men and women share equally in the social and civic life of America. Be it resolved that we heartily recommend the ratification of the Federal Suffrage Amendment by the state lgislature."

The resolutions committee was composed of Miss Belle Gregg of this city, Miss Emma Terhune of Milroy and Miss Clara Herbst.

8:30 p. m. Lecture-Sermon—Bishop Theodore S. Henderson.

That the annual Rush county chautauqua will close with the largest attendance on record, was the prediction today, because of the interest in the assembly this year, and the class of the talent for the closing day. In Bishop Henderson the chautauqua has one of the foremost platform and pulpit men in America, and patrons of the assembly appreciate his worth, according to comments which have been heard.

Also, on Sunday, the first instrumental numbers on this year's program will be given when the Bostonia Sextette will appear in two concerts. This organization is recommended to the local committee as above the average stringed instrument sextettes.

For uniqueness, last night's program was the best of the week, for the Mrs. Fiechtl's Alpine Singers and Yodlers and Charles C. Gorst, "The Bird Man," presented an entertainment which met with the approval of a large audience. The six Alpine Singers also appeared in the afternoon and made a very distince impression then, too.

Tonight is expected to be one of the banner nights of the week because of the interest which has been shown in the concert by the Davies Light Opera company, which is different from any other musical attraction here this year. Delegations are coming from surrounding cities for the concert. The company gave the prelude this afternoon before Lieut. Knotts' lecture and will present the comic opera "Olivette" tonight.

Private Gordon Ross will not fill his engagement here tomorrow af-

PRICE OF A SHAVE GOES UP

Union Barbers Announce They Will Charge 20 Cents.

Without any warning, or a chance to lay in a supply before the price advances, the union barbers of Rushville announced this afternoon that the price of a shave on and after tomorrow will be 20 cents, instead of 15 cents. Barbers accounted for the raise because everything else in proportion had gone up, including laundry and wages, so an increase was suggested in order to relieve the situation. No other changes will be made and a hair-cut may be obtained at the same old price.

Fence Facts

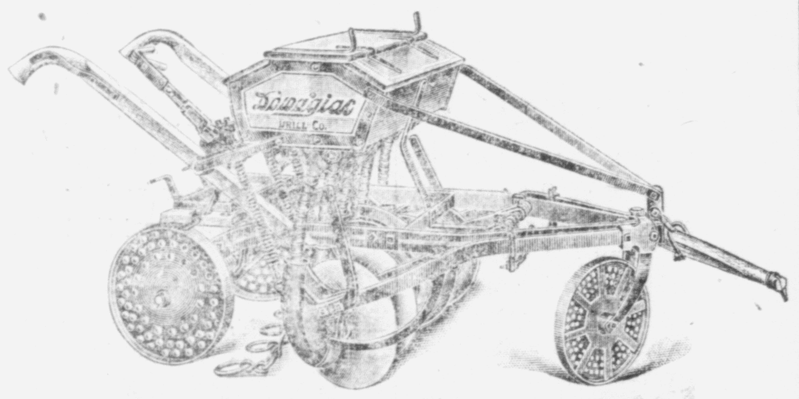

A well fenced farm gives character to the land and reputation to him who farms it.

No farmer with proper pride will allow his fences to run down and look shoddy.

Spring and fall are the two best times to build a fence. Neither extremely hot nor unusually cold weather is good.

Since a farmer has more spare time in fall than spring, the coming season offers the best opportunity to build and repair your fences.

They are STEERABLE without lifting by the operator. Pressure on one of the handles or the operator shifting his position, when riding on the box immediately changes the course to that side.

They are ADJUSTABLE both as to width of rows and as to depth of sowing.

They are UNIFORM depositors of seed by means of independent and adjustable spring pressure on each disc.

The Farmers and the Spuds.

A few years ago an Alabama farmer had 1,200 bushels of sweet potatoes to sell, and a southern commission house offered him half a cent a pound for them. This was the equivalent of the price offered per bushel. At the time this offer was made sweet potatoes of an inferior grade were selling in the stores in northern states at five and six cents a pound.

Investigation showed that there was not one person or one firm that was making an uncomparable profit out of the difference between the consumer's and the producers prices. But there were altogether too many people getting some profit out of each potato. There were too many middlemen. The cost of transportation was, naturally, part of the leakage. Railroads were privately owned then and freight rates were lower than they are now, but this was not enough to bring the cost of the consumer down to the proper figure. Some kind of organization was needed to eliminate a number of the leakages, and to get the product moved to the consumer by a more direct route—in short, to remove some of the middlemen.

Getting down to the root of things, it seems logical that if a men grows a vegetable in Alabama, and a man in Michigan eats it, that at least four people should be paid something—the man who grew it, the man who transported it, the commission man who distributed it, and the retailer who sold it to the consumer. There is no excuse for other middlemen, and this limited number of handlers is not sufficient to explain the great disparity between the price received by the grower and that paid by the consumer.

It is evident that too many people who don't grow, or transport, or even retail foodstuffs have a voice in arguing what the price is to be—and get paid part of that price for arguing about it.

A New Kind of Arrogance

Suppose Germany had won the Great War and had proceeded to levy her terms upon the United States. The principal feature of those terms would have been an enormous tribute to reimburse the Germans for their war expenditures. But the economic structure of America would have realized that their terms could never be complied with unless our industries were permitted to run uninterrupted and the production of wealth allowed to continue. In short our economic structure would have been little disturbed, and the daily life of the people would have gone on as before except for the huge financial levy they would have had to meet.

But to prevent the Germans from helping themselves to our national wealth 50,000 of our boys gave up their lives, over 200,000 others suffered wounds from German bullets, and the people back home raised a fund of many billions of dollars. If that is the price we were willing to pay to prevent confiscation of our wealth, what is the estimate to be put on the very lives of our people when they are in jeopardy?

Yet that is the very situation that confronts the United States at this moment. The men who operate the railroads have presented an ultimatum to the President, to Congress, and to the country. First, they demand a further substantial increase in wages as a temporary relief from high prices, and, second, they demand the enactment of the so-called Plumb bill for reorganized railroad control that will hand the roads over to a directorate of 15, 5 of whom are appointed each by the President the operating officials, and the employees. The threat of a general tie-up of the entire railway system of the country looms ominously unless the demands are promptly complied with.

The country has never experienced a general strike on its railroads, hence has little comprehension of the catastrophe that would follow such an action on the part of the railroad operatives. Practically every industry in the country depends on the roads to carry its product to market. The prompt distribution of food is almost wholly dependent upon them. Movement of the mail is contingent solely on the running of the trains. The sudden stoppage of rail transportation means almost instant collapse of practically every activity, immediate suffering from lack of food followed by actual starvation, and universal riot by desperate individuals fighting for the very existence of themselves and their loved ones. Such a cataclysm would be infinitely worse than anything the Huns could have inflicted upon us. But we used "force without stint" against them. Shall it be said that the people are not as ready to fight for the perpetuation of the Nation and the rights of individuals against this monster that is gnawing at our vitals?

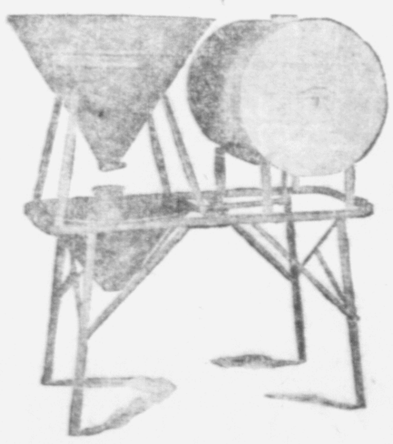

The railroad employees constitute only a part of organized labor, but organized labor itself is only about fifteen per cent of our people. Are the other eighty-five percent to permit themselves to be held up at the point of a pistol and told that the organization of the whole country must be accommodated to the demands of the few? If we must have revolution let it come now and determine at once whether government by the majority is to survive.

There was never a time in the history of this town when the readers of this paper were so interested in the advertising columns as they are today. With prices of everything up in the clouds, the average man or woman is keenly alive to the possibility of shaving off a cent or two in the price of necessities, and watches the ads like a hawk in the hope of finding some relief. The WISE merchant takes advantage of this and places his propositions before the people each week.

If every person in Rushville would devote thirty minutes each week to cleaning and beautifying their premises and the public highways and the vacant places we would soon be living in a veritable Garden of Eden. And it is so simple and easy, and without material cost. But, like every other proposition in life, it requires a head, a directing genius, some one to take the lead and push it along and keep it pushing.

What' in a Name?

During a recent visit of the Marquis Mayeda of Japan and Baron Minoru Hirata to Universal City to see how motion pictures are made, they were told by the guide that Harry Carey was working on the stage they were approaching.

"Hari-kari?" queried the Marquis, the light of interest gleaming in his eye.

Harry Carey was in a scene from "Bare Fists" with Vester Pagg and Betty Schade, and the Marquis and Baron gazed on as if entranced.

"Does he cut his throat or take poison?" asked the Marquis.

"That's not in the script," replied Jack Ford, director.

"But they told us "Hari-kari," was the rejoinder.

"Why, that's the star name," said Ford.

"Ah," said the Marquis to Carey. "You are the famous Haree Caree, I see. I thought you have, maybe a scene like in—Japan—hari-kari, eh? What you call—suicide. Much resemblance in your name—ah—hari-kari—yes."

"Bare Fists" will be shown Friday at the Mystic theatre.

Chas. M. Trowbridge's Sale of High Class Duroc Sows
50 Head—All Immune—50 Head
At Woodlawn Farm, near Mays, Indiana.
WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1919.

Tried sows, spring and summer and fall yearlings. Many of these gilts open, others bred to HOOSIER GIANT JR., best son of Hoosier Giant, the $1500 boar I sold to the Enoch Farm, Fernwood, Miss., last year. BIG JOE KING, 1st prize boar pig Indiana State Fair, 1918. WOODLAWN TOP COL., a good son of Walt Top Col.
The tried sows are sired by Orion Cherry King, Pal's Col., American Top Col., Hamlet, Mayes Top, Defender Prince and Gilbert's Jack's Friend. Yearling gilts are sired by Hoosier Giant, Joe Orion Jumbo, Joe Orion II Again, Woodlawn Top Col., Prince Orion Jr. and Perfect Defender.

Hoosier Giant, sailing under the name of Big Joe Orion King died recently in the Enoch's Farm herd. This was a great loss to this enterprising firm, but a much greater loss to the Duroc breed. He will be recognized as one of the best breeding sons of Orion Cherry King. Sows bred to him in their last February sale averaged over $600. Inquire for their report of August 1, 1919 sale. I predict that daughters of Hoosier Giant will have a wonderful reputation as herd sows during the next few months. Better place one or two of these gilts in your herd while you have an opportunity. Send for catalogue that gives full description of the offering.

McBirney, overseer of the C. & R. R. R., was a man of perhaps too much education. His track reports to the manager were lengthy and descriptive. The manager finally wrote him: "Cut out the novals. I want short and sweet track reports. I want facts; not love letters." The reprimand was taken as a matter of fact. A week later Bush River climbed ten feet up the canon walls and for two miles the tracks were drowned under two feet of water. At 5 p. m. the overseer sent a brief wire:

"Where the tracks were the river is."

I wish to announce that I have completed arrangements with an old established firm to secure Anti-Hog Cholera Serum and Virus produced from hyper-immune hogs and pigs coming from a section of Nebraska which is comparatively free from Swine Plague, Haemorrhagis Septicemia and various mixed infections which have been very prevalent in this section of the country.
From my investigations, I am firmly convinced that the use of this product will reduce the chances of hogs coming down with the above infections to a minimum.

P. S.—Orders for this serum and virus placed with me in the evening will be here ready for administration the next morning. Fresh serum all the time.

slumped slightly forward, his chin cupped in his hand, his brow wrinkled, his right hand twitching, turning, thumb rubbing over fingers, crossing and recrossing his feet, seemingly deeply engrossed in his inquisitor and that gentleman's efforts yet caught many times mentally tinkering with some mechanical subject.

His last two days on the stand saw a stiffening against the Tribune attorney's attack. He was more cautious he succeeded in warding off many blows which before fell.

Few people, if any, have more than a general idea of what the trial cost. One mathematically inclined newspaper man who has been at the "ringside" throughout said $500,000 was spent by both litigants in actual court work. He did not include money spent by Ford in maintaining information and press bureaus. Seventeen lawyers actively were engaged in the court-room, seven retained by Ford, eight by the Tribune and two representing Solomon Bros., co-defendants. Elliott G. Stevenson, senior Tribune counsel, was understood to receive between $300 and $400 a day. This was not doubted by uninterested legal men. It also was estimated no lawyer in the court room received less than $50 a day.

lose money at this price when they pay 11½.

"Whenever I get barrel sugar at 10c plus the freight I sell it at 11c," said a Rushville grocery man to day, "but I can not sell package sugar for which I pay 11 and 11½ cents, at 11c. The government should get on the trial of the wholesalers and see that they keep granulated sugar at 10c before they make the public believe they should buy it for 11c. We have plenty of brown sugar at 10c a pound, but few people will use that."

One grocer said a woman complained about paying 6c a pound for potatoes, practically calling him a robber, when he paid 5½ cents a pound for the potatoes and was not profit on them.

He declared that a farmer came into his store and complained about paying 12c for granulated sugar. A traveling man overheard the conversation and volunteered the information that some stores in Connersville were selling sugar for 13 and 14 cents a pound.

Another traveling man asked a local food dealer about the alleged high prices of restaurants here. In this connection, he said that he paid 70 cents for half a cantaloupe, two piece sof toast, two eggs and a cup of coffee in Connersville that day. The Rushville dealer inquired at a local restaurant about the price of the same things here, and found it to be 35 cents.

Scorched!

It will happen at times under the eyes, even of the most responsible of "home cleaners."

It may be an overheated iron, or momentary forgetfulness—but the damage is done. The garment may be scorched beyond all further usefulness. At the very least a mark is left that no washing can ever erase. Such scorching occurs in the home because irons must be heated by fire and electricity that attain high temperatures.

But it can not take place when you send your garments to us.

Our presses are heated by steam which never becomes hot enough to scorch. If you were to hold a gossamer silk over the steaming spout of your hot water kettle, the steam would not damage the fabric. The same methods are used by us.

With its help we are able to give a beautiful lustre to your work with never a brown-tinted scar to mar it. Garments are thoroughly dry cleaned by us and then given over to the steam presser, which insures the best of work.

ENTERTAINS WITH QUAINT PHILOSPHY

J. Adam Bede Keeps Chautauqua Audience Laughing With Comments on Progress

SEES FUNNNY SIDE OF THINGS

Maintains Progress in Stead of Settling Problems Only Makes More of Them

Maintaining that the fast progress of our nation does not settle problems but only makes more problems J. Adam Bede held his audience, yesterday afternoon at the chautauqua with his humorous lecture entitled, "Problems Arising From Our Nation's Progress." Mr. Bede proved to be quite a philosopher, and the crowd not only smiled occasionally, but laughed out aloud most of the time. He talked very fast, and took his hearers back 50 and 70 years ago when inventions were unheard of, and compared the fast traveling of the present day through man's ingenuity to what it was in the olden days.

He at first praised the smaller towns for being really more familiar with the great events that were going on in the world than the larger cities. He illustrated this point by exclaiming, "The larger cities today don't konw what a chautauqua is, and most of them think it is a new kind of an automobile."

Mr. Bede's idea throughout his lecture was to call to the notice of his hearers all the wonderful inventions and new methods of living of the last seventy-five or one hundred years and then to show how each one of these inventions and new methods has brought about its corresponding problems and a readjustment of life to meet that problem. He discussed the telegraph, the cable, the railroad, the printing machine, typewriter, automobile airplane, rural delivery and all the various forms of machinery used on the farm, showing how they have changed our manner of living, our contact with our neighbors and the world and how they have brought great fortunes to some men, fortunes which we should not be envious of because they have brought the comforts and many of the luxuries to all American citizens.

"It took 6,000 years to find out which end to put the hole in the needle, and by the time they found it out, someone had invented the sewing machine," continued the orator, and "Today you wouldn't want to go back those many years, and be without a modern sewing device. Every invention, if you would stop and think, has made someone a millionaire, yet you wouldn't prejudice yourself, and do without them, just because you wasn't the person who made the million."

Mr. Bede continued, "When I was a boy—I say boy, because 'kid' was not invented yet, mother didn't know what a cream separator was and she would wait all night for the cream to rise, but today, dairymen want the cream right away, and sure enough they can get it." He explained that all modern inventions had taken time and had cost a great deal of money. Mr. Bede said that it cost the kaiser a great deal more money to discover America than it did Christopher Columbus.

He classified the problems of our nations under three heads—the problems of progress, the problems of ignorance, and the problems of prejustice. The problems of progress, he said, are to be solved by adjustment to new conditions, the problems of ignorance by a fine system of education, and the problems of prejudice, in social, political and religious life, by freeing our hearts of all hatred. He said there was a new kind of hatred coming into the world and that was the hatred of the hun, but he went onto explain that, though he knew all that the huns had done, we could not go on hating forever without doing harm to ourselves and causing conditions which will result in another future and terrible war. He closed with the idea that our young people, growing up with their ideals of patriotism and learning daily of the struggles and wonderful progress of our beloved country, will be amply able to care for its future.

Some of the interesting pieces of philosophy which he brought out were:

"I once heard a lecturer tell a lady who was tussling with a crying baby trying to keep it quiet by covering it up, that, 'Madam, what that baby needs is board—not lodging.'"

"Farming is becoming so easy nowadays that the farmer must erect a gymnasium on his farm, in order to give his hands the proper kind of exercise."

"I was raised a Baptist, and still cling somewhat to that faith, but as I grow older, I don't care whether my sins are washed or dry-cleaned."

"If were to find the genesis of this nation, we must go back to the very beginning of time."

"We could not hold these forty-eight states together if it were not for the railroad and telegraph."

"So long as the black man was a slave there was no race problem, but as soon as he was freed the subject of equality came up."

"We have met the problems of the past, we are meeting the problems of the present, and our children will be able to meet the problems of the future. The problems of the future will be met in a way we lit-

One Car All Women Like

WE are frequently told by women in this city that they prefer the Hupmobile to any other car they have driven.

They like the ease with which they handle it, wherever they go.

They like its snappy pick-up and the way it goes through when they step on the pedal.

They say they rarely have to shift gears, except when starting from a dead stop.

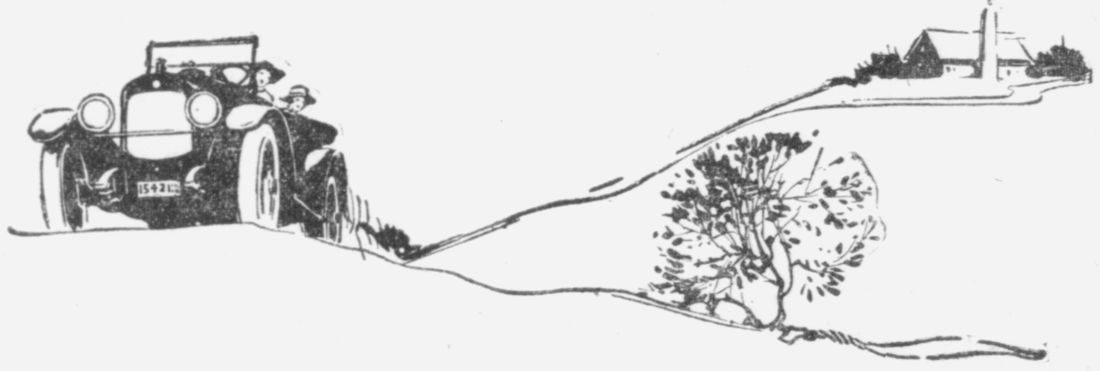

Above all, they like its downright reliability. They all say they have never had a car so wholly dependable and faithful.

We speak of these things now for the guidance of women who already drive their own cars, and those who would like to do that.

RIFLE MATCHES STARTED TODAY

Are an Aftermath of Smaller and Less Interesting Competition Among Sportsmen.

TEAMS ALL OVER WORLD HERE

Most Interesting of National Matches Will be Two Shot off For Trophies Coveted by Teams

Caldwell, N. J., Aug. 15—The mot important national rifle championship matches that ever have taken place in this country got under way here to-day on the new rifle range constructed for the naval department. The navy has charge of the matches this year, an innovation considering that the matches always have been considered as belonging to the army. Marine corps officers, mainly, are in charge.

The matches beginning to-day are an aftermath of smaller and less interesting competition that has been going on for some time. Teams from Belgium, Egland and many other foreign countries now are here to meausre skill with the best this country can muster, which is considerable measuring considering that the A. E. F. team recently defeated everything the Allies could trot out in competition on the other side.

The most interesting of the national matches will be two shot off for trophies covete dby rifle teams everywhere. The first is for the Wimbledon cup, presented the United States in 1878 by Princess Louise of Great Britain. This trophy goes to the champion long distance shot.

The Leech cup is the oldest rifle trophy in the country. It was a gift of Capt. Arthur Blennerhasset Leech, who was captain of the Irish team that competed with the Americans in 1874.

Military champion of the United States is the title that goes with the winning of the president's match. The winner also receives an autographed letter from the President.

The Marine Corps cup match is open to everyone and always attracks a large number of entrants.

tle dream of today. Time would solve all our problems if we would only wait. The kind of a world we want is one we can make a little better each day and each year, and make it stay better."

"The world has become a whispering gallery; every nation is but a suburb of the United States."

"You'd arrest a farmer now for cruelty to his crop, if he'd thresh it the way they did seventy-five years ago. We read about 'The Man with a Hoe,' but we never see a man using a hoe now. You can't sell a farmer anything now that he can't sit down on."

"Stop thinking in small and local units and think in terms of nations and the world; it is only by thinking in this way that the big problems will be solved. The president of the U. S. is as a light set upon a hill, toward which the eyes of the world are turned.

"It is a wonderful thing to be born into the English language, not because it is better than any other but because it is spoken in every country of the world."

"Every man is the architect of his own fortune, but we never speak of a man being the architect of his misfortune—he blames that on somebody else."

"Why do so many people think that everything in the world is going wrong? Largely because we read too much of the wrong that happens and too little about the great and good things. It is the unusual thing that is printed."

"Fifty years ago you could not hold a union meeting of the Protestant denominations, but now the church has laid aside its differences and religion is moving on. It doesn't make any difference what denomination you belong to, so you have a leaning toward christianity."

"I have always believed in two great parties—one party to be in power and the other almost; one party to run the government and the other to watch and see that it runs it right. We need watchers as much as we need workers. The democratic party has made a good watcher."

"This is American politics, 'Making some one else move on and then warm yourself where they lay.'"

"What would I do with the kaiser? I'd turn him over to Ireland and then set Ireland free.

Facts About Serum

We are the only firm in Rush County administering Carotid Bled Serum. Carotid Bled Serum means one outright bleeding from the throat of a serum producing hog. Tail bled serum means three bleedings from the tail and in 30 days a final throat bleeding. This tail bled method produces twice the amount of serum and necessitates a larger dose of serum than the Carotid Bled method.

We are willing to hold any test to prove the higher potency of Carotid Bled Serum. Any truthful tail bled serum producer will tell you that tail bled serum produces more serum but is less potent, than the Carotid Bled Serum. In the past four years 25 tail bled serum companies have failed. We will gladly compare the official record of our serum firm with any tail bled serum company in the United States.

You know the cost of hogs and can find out how much serum they should bleed. Then if any person is vaccinating for a price that is not reasonable with the cost of production (either too cheap or too high) we state this fact—something is wrong, and worth your investigation. We must state facts to have your confidence. We have not had a single cholera break in 1919.

Since our last advertisement fourteen Thorntown Serum users have engaged us to vaccinate their hogs. Facts are facts.

We respectfully solicit your investigation of the foregoing and your patronage.

A Fertilizer Bargain

MANURE, properly handled, is worth several dollars a ton. It replaces some fertilizers you would otherwise buy and it makes the soil rich in humus.

But to prevent rain from leaching out its nitrogen and potash, its most valuable content, you need a conerete manure pit. With a pit there is practically no loss.

Let us show you plans and give you a cost estimate for a concrete pit that will save the half that now goes to waste in the barnyard. It is a small investment but a big saving.

MEXICAN BORDER STILL VERY WET

Nationwide Prohibition May Offer Hard Problem to Peace Officer In Inland States

BOOOZE SMUGGLING FINE ART

Mexican Can Cross Rio Grande at Night and Dispose of Wares and Back by Morning

(By United Press.)

Laredo, Tex., Aug. 15—Enforcement of nation-wide prohibition may offer a hard problem to peace officers in the inland states but their job is a sinecure to that of federal officials trying to keep the American side of the Mexican border dry.

Prohibition in the United States has offered a means of wealth to hundreds of adventursome spirits along the Rio Grande and booze smuggling is being made a fine art.

All the fiery Mexican drinks—mescal, aguardiente and tequila—sell readily in the states and smuggling is comparatively easy since the twelve hundred odd miles of border generally is sparsely settled and patrolled only by small military units.

The wily Mexican, trailing his mescal in bladders, hog skins and goat skins, wades the Rio Grande at night, disposes of his wares and is back in Mexico again long before the dawn. When the mescal lacks punch, he spikes it with red pepper, onions or drugs and the result is a knock-out which backs Jack Dempsey's uppercuts in the shade.

Spiked soda water is another means of avoiding detection. Recently a Mexican, with a cargo of apparently harmless, pink, soda-water, was stopped by customs agents, who sampled his wares. The soda water was pink in appearances only. It's kick beat any American "Red-Eye" known.

In one week recently, in the town of Alice, Jim Wells County, customs agents found more than 300 quarts of mescal.

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief To Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers

Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the doubters and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome.

He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common yet miserable disease.

And best of all this remedy costs almost nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Mentholized Arcine at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled.

Then gargle as directed and twice daily snuff or spray each nostril thoroughly.

That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work; but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using.

If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwelcome yearly visitor fails to appear.

POINTS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT AUTOMOBILE TIRES

(By A. L. Murray, president of The Double Fabric Tire Company.)

The modern pneumatic automobile tire ought to be called "The 8th Wonder of the World," for, as one man expressed it, the real wonder is, not that they give out once in a while, but rather that anything made of cotton fabric and rubber can stand the work an automobile tire is put to.

Tires carry about as much "pressure" (60 to 90 lbs.) as commonly used in a steam boiler—yet, the boiler has only to "stand still" while the tire has to whiz over all kinds of roads, over rocks, bumps and railroad tracks at 25 to 40 miles an hour—sometimes properly inflated and sometimes sticking out on both sides like a man with double mumps.

Despite this hard service and the thousands of road accidents to which a tire is subject, it is surprising how very few strictly high quality tires fail to make good big mileage.

The owner's part in the obtaining of large mileage resolves itself into first buying of the best possible tire and then in giving it reasonable care in the important matters of keeping up pressure—avoiding excessive blows, stones, etc., as much as practical and prompt repair or reinforcement of numerous damages.

In the selecting of "what tire to buy" it is first necessary to remember that tires like shoes, hats or clothes are made in the three grades of "cheap," "medium" and "extra fine" and that "best service" and in the long run "lowest cost" always follows "best quality."

The purpose of this article then, is to provide the owner with more "definite" information about tires than manufacturers usually give in the belief that this will not only be appreciated but that it will also actually help the owner more than any other one thing.

What "Quality" Means.

"Quality" is a word so often misapplied to even the cheapest tires, that it recalls the Aesop fable of the boy who hollered "Wolf! Wolf!" when there wasn't any wolf—with the result that when a real live one came down the pike nobody heard him and the wolf ate the boy all up.

"Quality" in tires, however, consists of certain absolutely definite things about which (as owners become better posted) they will probably demand more definite statements.

Two "Kinds" of Fabric Used.

The strength of a tire—which means its ability to resist damage for the longest possible time—depends primarily on the strength of the fabric or cord of which it is made—and of the quantity used.

There are two principal grades of fabric, which are commonly used in the production of probably 95% of all automobile tires.

The best and strongest of these is what is known as Egyptian Fabric—being fabric woven (in this country) from imported long fiber cotton grown along the Nile River—the rich overflow soil of which produces a cotton especially adapted to give long service in tires—due both to its long fiber and also to the extra large number of little branches or spurs which give a twisted strand of Egyptian cotton its ability to hold together exceptionally long, under the constant "flexing" of tire use.

The other, or second grade, is what is commonly known as American or "peeler" fabric—a material which costs factories 10% to 12½% less than Egyptian.

The total amount of Egyptian cotton imported into this country (after deducting amounts known to be used in other trades, such as fine hosiery, etc.,) is so small as to indicate plainly that the great bulk of tires today necessarily must be using the cheaper or "peeler" grade.

The important point between the two grades of fabric is not that a fair tire cannot be made of "peeler" fabric, but simply that a tire NEEDS the extreme limit of DURABILITY—and this Egyptian fabric gives.

How Many Plies.

A tire can "get by" with only the number of plies of fabric used in tires sold at so-called standard prices which give you 3½-inch sizes made only 4 ply thick—4-inch sizes 5 ply thick—4½-inch sizes 6 ply thick and 5-inch sizes 7 ply thick.

Most tires are built to only the above number of plies and belong to what the trade call the regular or "nonextra ply" class, but gradually one tire company after another has been compelled by the exceptional success and exceptional mileage records of the "extra ply" tires to go to a higher schedule until today no tire is really in the extra quality, extra long mileage class unless it is built to the new schedule of 3½-inch sizes built 5 ply thick—4-inch 6 ply—4½-inch 7 ply and 5-inch 8 ply. Well known tires of the definite extra ply class are—Kelly Springfield, Hood, Mohawk and the Nobby Tread tire of the United States.

In short, this "extra ply" construction gives the strongest fabric body that can be built in a tire and a durability which "one less ply" cannot produce.

It is not difficult to tell "whether" any given tire is built of Egyptian fabric and with one extra ply, or not, for you can safely "bet your old hat" that if they are so made, the makers will let you know about it definitely and positively in their advertising.

There are, of course, many ways of "camouflaging," that cost much less than actually to use "Egyptian fabric and one extra ply"—such things as "wonderful service"—"finest quality fabric"—"enormous factory production," etc.—but when a jeweler sells you something that is "18 Karat Gold" you can count on it that he will take particular pains to show you the "18 K" mark—while if its only 14 or 12 he'll look out of the window, or show you the beautiful "engraving."

The Importance of Para Rubber.

Rubber is one of those few God given natural products, which like "untarnished" gold—like the "warmth" of wool, has certain properties peculiar to itself not found in any other article, and which therefore probably never will be successfully imitated or substituted.

In rubber this peculiar natural property is wonderful strength, combined with what we term its "elasticity" (or the ability to stretch to a wonderful degree—millions of times, and yet come back to its original length) and combined with this are the equally wonderful properties—that it is impervious to water and practically unaffected by any ordinary degrees of either heat or cold.

Some idea of the strength of Pure Para Rubber and its wonderful elasticity and also of the utter futility of trying to get true rubber merit by adding to it or substituting any other material, can be gathered from the fact that to pass Government requirements (which are always set high) a tube must stretch not less than 7½ times its length before breaking (in other words, 1 inch length must stretch to 8½ inches long)—while some idea of how fine rubber can be made when it is all pure Para and properly cured is gained from the fact that the U. S. Bureau of Standards test on our own Brazil Rubber Inner Tube shows that it stretched a little over 10 times its length before breaking.

In a "highest possible quality" tread stock (in which elasticity is needed to cushion the road shocks—combined with great wear quality) the best tread is made by using the highest possible percentage of pure Para Rubber combined with just enough of oxide of zinc to give extreme toughness against wear—the high Government requirement being that it shall stretch not less than 4½ times its length before breaking—our tread (Bureau of Standard test) showing a 6¼ times stretch before breaking.

What "Rubber" Does In a Tire.

The first and one of the most vitally important uses of rubber in a tire is to HOLD THE PLIES TOGETHER—since we depend upon the united strength of all the plies to resist blowouts, and if "separation" occurs between any of the plies—the life of the tire will be greatly shortened.

There are three vital things in holding the plies together—the first being, that the rubber must be so thoroughly pressed down into the fabric from both sides that it will meet together in the intercises (or little holes between the threads) thus forming little rubber rivets which join the rubber on one side of the fabric to the rubber on the other side.

The extreme importance of getting these little rivets as large or fat as possible and of having them of the very toughest and strongest rubber can be understood when it is explained that separation between two plies of fabric almost invariably takes the form of simply pulling the rubber out of the fabric by the breaking of these little rubber rivets—due to their being too small or too weak.

To gain exceptional strength at this vital point we first obtain a greater than usual toughness in the rubber itself by making it all pure Para in place of mixing it with some softer, cheaper rubber, as is commonly done, to make the calendar work "easier." Starting out with the greatest possible strength of the rubber itself, we have then developed a process of our own which by actual test puts 17% more rubber right down into the fabric—thus making the little rubber rivets both very much larger and stronger—with the result that separation of the plies in AUBURN tires is practically unheard of.

The next important use of rubber in a tire is to form an elastic body between the plies, which will allow the necessary motion between the plies as the tire constantly "flexes," and here again the long life and durability of the tire and the holding of the plies together without separation are dependent entirely on using rubber having the very last notch of toughness, strength and durability—which again is obtained and can only be obtained by the use of the purest possible Para. Our sworn-to Government affidavit made at the time of soliciting war orders, shows that this rubber in AUBURN tires is 91% pure Para, which with the necessary sulphur to cure leaves practically nothing but pure Para rubber, and is well above even the high Government requirements of 75% to 85% Para.

The next step in rubber's use is to join and hold the tread of the tire to the fabric carcass. One of the hardest things in tire building and which has given all the factories some trouble, but which we have fully conquered by the use of a stock between the tread and carcass which combines a little of each, and thus joins perfectly with both—plus a certain carefully developed further refinement of our own which has given the remarkable result of more than twice the high tread cling strength required in the highest government specifications.

The final step in rubber's use is to make a tread so "live" that it will constantly form a resiliant protecting cushion to prevent damaging road shocks from reaching the fabric and that will outwear the tire itself.

Right here, a misconception on the part of owners (or perhaps it should even be called a certain unfairness) has acted to prevent factories from making a tread as tough as they could—for the simple reason that if the tread wears out about the same time that the fabric of the tire is due to give out, the customer is satisfied because his tire "looks worn out," and he therefore feels that the fabric has lasted as long as could be expected.

While if the tread is made to that extreme toughness which a high percentage of Para rubber scientifically cured can produce, the tread will only wear off about 1-32 of an inch per thousand miles of normal use, with the result that tires which have gone 5,000 to 7,000 miles, WILL OFTEN NOT HAVE EVEN THE NON-SKIDS WORN SMOOTH—with the perhaps natural result that if something then happens to the tire the owner jumps to the conclusion that the fabric "must have been rotten"—although, he would have been fairly well satisfied if the tread had only been WORN OFF more. Admitting the difficulty of overcoming this popular "impression," and that it gives an opportunity for the unscrupulous and unfair dealer or owner to demand unfair adjustments, we yet have the nerve to make our tread AS TOUGH AS WE KNOW HOW, because of the important point that one of the big purposes of a tread is to save the carcass of the tire from road shocks, and this vital "protecting of the fabric" result is only obtained where the tread is so tough and wears so little that it continues to keep a thick cushion of live rubber between the fabric and the road. The AUBURN TREAD BY SWORN GOVERNMENT AFFIDAVIT IS 81% pure Para, (the balance being oxide of zinc with necessary sulphur to cure), making the PUREST RUBBER tread we know of.

The Bead of a Tire.

There is a whole science in itself in the building of a tire bead, so that there will be no rim cuts no matter how long the tire is used—excepting that small to be expected percentage which is bound to occur where tires are run under-inflated or accidentally run flat. The secret of proper bead construction lies in doing the extra work, or in other words, putting in the extra cost of molding and semi-curing each bead first before it is built in the tire, so that it is bound to be correctly placed and to keep its proper shape—most bead trouble being due to hasty factory methods of laying the bead in its raw or crude form, and then trusting to luck that it will form to "about" the right shape in the molding of the full tire. It's a practice, however, that is dying out, and because of it, rim cuts are becoming comparatively rare. In our own tire, we have been particularly fortunate in this respect, with the reputation of having the bead right from the very start.

Methods of Building Tires.

There are two methods of building tires, which are commonly called "machine built" and "hand built." The "machine built" tire helps in the matter of making extreme large production practical—because less dependent on skilled labor, and therefore something which can be more quickly increased during the rush season and more readily laid off at dull times. As far as the article produced is concerned both methods can probably build a good tire, but just as a "hand built" shoe and tailored suit of clothes has never YET been excelled—if indeed it can be equalled by the "machine made" goods, so it is safe to count on the fact that a "hand built" tire is equally "unexcelled."

Different Methods of Curing Tires.

Practically all tires are made either by the "full molded" or "wrapped tread" process, there being in truth, no particular choice between the two, since a thoroughly fine tire can be built by either process, providing only, the proper care is taken throughout, from the handling of the crude rubber up. Practical proof of which is found in the fact that among the best known tires—both of extra quality and of so called standard quality, the tires which have shown best results do not belong either to the one class or the other—but are about equally divided.

The advantages which we (and some of the highest grade manufacturers in the country) believe lie in the full moulded process, is that the tire being completely built of uncured stock, all parts then are naturally and perfectly united while under heavy pressure and softened by heat—while the "double cure" process has the tread "semi-cured" and presents some of the same difficulties to good union that you would get if you tried to join two sections of partly baked bread.

But neither "moulded," "wrapped" or "double cure" process can alone give a tire materially more mileage. That in truth lies—not in any one thing or feature—but rather in making each and every step—liberally right.

BERLIN FACING A COAL FAMINE

Serious Problem to Supply Industries, Railroads and Homes with Sufficient Fuel.

NO SURPLUS FROM LAST YEAR.

Officials Predict That Industry Will Not Reach Anything Like Normal Rate Until Next Year.

By CARL D. GROAT.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Berlin, (By Mail.)—German officialdom sees ahead the specter of serious coal shortage.

Just as all Europe has suffered, and will suffer again, the coming winter, because of lowered coal output, so Germany anticipates that she faces a serious problem in supplying industries, railroads, gas works, and homes with sufficient coal.

Recently the economic ministry and officials of the states have come together to consider the outlook. And the first result of their deliberations was to let the public know that the situation is thoroughly serious.

For the first five months of the year the German coal production ran only 60 per cent as much as in the same period a year ago. And, in addition to this fact, she had no surplus from the previous year, and during June and July had to contend with railroad strikes which seriously hampered coal deliveries. From time to time, there have been mine strikes, and on the whole there is a lowered morale and a decreased staff in the coal industry.

At present, the railroads and gas works are living from hand to mouth as regards their supply of coals. In these circumstances, and with only slight prospect that coal production the remainder of the year can be speeded up the officials felt that the prospects for winter are, indeed, dubious.

Moreover, the fact that the peace treaty calls for abandonment of certain coal territory and for certain coal deliveries to France makes the problem, as far as Germany is concerned, one of increased difficulty.

Officials predict that industry will not reach anything like a normal rate of production until well into next year, if then, unless a far larger coal supply can be turned out.

While France's coal production fell off because of ruined mines and decreased labor power, Germany's production has been decreasing through decreased labor power and through lessened morale. There has been much dissatisfaction among the miners, and their demands earlier in the year required shorter hours and more pay. With the coming of winter, transportation naturally will be worse than it is now, so that Germany's problem at present is to get her mines going as fully as possible and to repair her run down rolling stock in order to get as much coal out as possible before cold weather sets in.

FOOD SALE LASTS ONLY THREE DAYS

Orders For Army Surplus Will be Received at Postoffice or by Carriers, Aug. 18, 19, 20

SOLD ONLY IN BULK LOTS

Postmaster's Instructions and Price List Received—Shipments From Chicago, 3rd Zone

The sale of surplus foodstuff by the war department will begin on August 18 (next Monday) and continue for only three days, according to instructions received today by Postmaster G. P. Hunt, which also included order blanks containing the prices of all articles for sale and the amount which will be allotted to the Rushville office.

The distributing point for Rushville will be Chicago, which is in the third zone. This means that the parcel post will be six cents for the first pound and two cents for each additional pound. For example, bacon as listed by the government, will cost 37c and a fraction a pound, delivered to the door of the consumer, including parcel post charges.

The food will be sold only in the case, bag or sack, as the case may be, and persons who do not wish to buy that much may join with neighbors or friends in ordering a case.

Using bacon as an example, a case containing six 12-pound cans, weighs gross 102 pounds and sells for $21.90, which amounts to $4.15 can or 34c a pound. The parcel post charges on a can would be 2.08, which amounts to 35c a can or 3 a pound.

All orders from consumers must be accompanied with the cash, which must include the parcel post. Carriers in the city or rural delivery may accept orders in writing. Consumers must keep a copy of the order given to the carrier, upon which the carrier will receipt for cash paid. Orders received at the postoffice, whether direct from the consumer or from a carrier, must be filled in the order received, as in the case of a shortage of any item or items the first orders received will be given preference, and on any orders that can not be filled the money will be refunded promptly. The postmaster is instructed to make a requisition each night of the three days, for the amount of foodstuff ordered during the day.

Material which the consumer claims is damaged or spoiled will be replaced upon affidavit of the consumer, countersigned by the postmaster.

The Rushville postoffice is allotted the following amounts:

Baked beans—1092, 1-lb. cans; 2, 2-lb. cans; 1752, 3-lb. cans.

ORDERS PROBE OF COAL CONSPIRACY

Senate Votes For Full Investigation of Alleged Combination to Keep Up Prices.

FOOD CONTROL BILL ARGUED

Vote on Amendments Extending the Scope of Measure as Suggested by Attorney General Held Up.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Aug. 15.—The senate today ordered an investigation into the alleged profiteering in coal and into charges of conspiracy to keep up prices.

The Frelinghuysen resolution adopted today without debate, directed the senate interstate commerce committee to make inquiry.

The committee postponed until Tuesday action of proposed legislation aimed at profiteering in food and clothing.

The committee had under consideration today amendments to the food control bill proposed by Attorney General Palmer.

The committee had decided on a vote today but after much wrangling, Committeeman Gronna announced that the vote would be postponed. He said amendments would be defeated if a vote was taken today.

Gronna proposed amendments to exempt farmers, gardeners, live stock producers and co-operative associations from the proposed penalty for profiteering. He declared farmers proposed Palmer's amendment to the bill to safeguard them.

Senate Ransdell, Louisiana, declared that any attempt to broaden the scope of the food control act would be bitterly fought on the senate floor.

Cox Asks Seizure of Meat

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 15—Governor Cox, Ohio, today asked United States Attorney General Palmer to seize 2,420,000 pounds of meat stored in Ohio by several big Chicago packers on charges of "willful violation and even defiance of the law."

Cox said the meat was owned by Swift and Company, Morris and Company, Wilson and Company and Brant and Company. The governor urged Palmer to take immediate action to seize the meat and prosecute the packers.

In addition 32 affidavits charging 32 Ohio persons with violation of the state cold storage act, were signed.

"Our investigation followed unmistakable evidence in "wilful violation and defiance of the law on the part of the large packing houses, particularly upon food supplies being shipped from Chicago to Cleveland, returned again to Chicago, and reshipped back to Cleveland," says Gov. Cox.

"In behalf of public interest I suggest prosecution on receipt from

RESTAURANTS ARE GIVEN CLEAN BILL

M. F. Lovett Says He Finds Price of Egg Sandwiches Are Not Raised as Alleged

COMPLAINT TO L. ERT SLACK

Grocers Say Government Should Investigate Wholesalers Before Making Sugar Price Ilc

M. F. Lovett of Carthage, federal food administrator for Rush county during the war, who has consented to act in his old capacity during the campaign to reduce the cost of living, has investigated the charges of profiteering by restaurants in Rushville and has found them unfounded, he announced today.

It will be recalled that a few days ago, L. Ert Slack, United States district attorney, gave out a story to Indianapolis newspapers and press associations that he had received complaints about restaurant prices in Rushville, and he referred the matter to Mr. Lovett, in a letter received Wednesday.

"I herewith enclose a postal card which states in substance that certain restaurants in Rushville have recently raised the price of egg sandwiches from 10c to 15c. Please made a thorough investigation of this matter and I suggest that you not only report the result of your investigation to his office, but that you make public the result of your investigation, giving names, prices, etc., and that no one be spared publicity where they are profiteering."

"I have called on each of the three restaurants and find they have not raised the price on egg sandwiches," said Mr. Lovett today. "I am told that Connersville newspapers, also state papers, have published this report. In justice to your restaurants I think this report should be denied.

Mr. Lovett also announced while here that M. V. Spivey had consented to act as city food administrator for Rushville. Mr. Spivey served in this capacity during the war, succeeding Charles A. Frazee when he was elected county treasurer.

Local retail dealers complain they have not had a fair deal in the publicity which has been given food prices in Rushville. They assert that the stories which have been published in Indianapolis newspapers and elsewhere in the state have left the impression that they are all profiteers when the complaint made to the district attorney only charged that the price of egg sandwiches had been raised five cents.

When the facts are all in concerning sugar Rushville grocers assert that the stories which have been published in Indianapolis newspapers and elsewhere in the state have left the impression that they are all profiteers when the complaint made to the district attorney only charged that the price of egg sandwiches had been raised five cents.

When the facts are all in concerning sugar, Rushville grocers assert that fair-minded people can not charge them with profiteering. If selling sugar without making a cent is profiteering, then they are guilty, they say. Grocers believe, before the government fixes the fair retail price of sugar at eleven cents on the assumption that wholesalers are selling it at ten cents a pound, they had better learn for sure what the jobbers actually are charging. As a matter of fact, Rushville dealers said today, they can occasionally get barrel sugar at ten cents plus the freight, but that it is so scarce, they have to buy package sugar most of the time at prices ranging from 11 to 11½ cents. Few grocers, if any, have ever sold sugar above twelve cents, and they

BOTH SATISFIED WITH THE VERDICT

After Ten Hours Deliberation, Jury Awards Henry Ford 6 Cents Damages Against Tribune.

TRIAL COST STATE $10,000

Defendant Must Pay Manufacturer $50 Toward Expenses—$5,000 a Day Expense to Litigants

(By United Press.)

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 15.—Henry Ford, millionaire automobile manufacturer, today stood victor in his million dollar libel suit against the Chicago Tribune.

After ten hours deliberation the jury announced the verdict of 6 cents damages, here last night.

Attorneys for both Ford and the Tribune seemed today to be satisfied with the verdict.

Under Michigan laws Ford will receive only $50 from the Tribune toward paying court expenses.

It has cost the state of Michigan about $10,000, attorneys estimated today.

Costs to the litigants were estimated at $5,000 a day during the progress of the hearing alone.

The Ford-Tribune case was one of the most novel in legal history. It dated back to early 1916 when the Chicago Tribune published the now famous "Ford is an Anarchist," editorial, based on certain Ford signed advertisements against preparedness.

Ford demanded retraction. The newspaper refused, declaring in a letter that although Ford might not be a bomb thrower anarchist, he was against the government.

Suit was filed shortly afterward in United States district court, northeastern district court, northeastern district of Illinois, before Judge K. M. Landis.

Answer was filed and Ford demurred to the answer. The demurrer was under consideration when Ford dismissed the suit.

Shortly afterward a new suit was filed in the circuit court of Wayne county, (Detroit) thus bringing into the case Solomon Bros., Detroit news-dealers, who sold the Tribune as co-defendants.

Almost fifteen weeks ago the trial started here after a change of venue had been granted the Tribune, which contended a fair trial would not be possible at Detroit, Ford's home town.

Through the weeks attorneys threshed over the evidence with but little to break the monotony until Ford himself took the stand a few weeks ago. He remained for seven days of vexatious questioning.

During this time he admitted advertisements fighting what he termed "over preparedness" were written for him by his "peace secretary," Theodore De Lavigne and only signed by Ford.

Attorney Stevenson of the Tribune, by much questioning brought him to the admission that he knew little about history and politics even though "he attempted to educate the people to his preparedness plans, and was candidate for United States senatorial nomination recently."

Ford admitted he never had heard of John Andre, said he thought Benedict Arnold was a writer and that a mobile army was a large army. He knew, however, the intricacies of mechanics and was much more at ease when the questioning drifted to subjects relating to his life study.

The manufacturer on the stand was not the self-reliant, unobtrusive worker he is at his plant. Clearly he was nervous, unacquainted with his surroundings too willing to answer questions that the trial might be speeded even at cost to himself. Failure to wait for the guiding advice of his attorney got him in many a tangle. He would sit

County Teachers' Institute Indorses Fedeal Suffrage Amendment in Resolutions Today

CLOSING SESSION IS HELD

Vote of Thanks Extended to Institute Lecturers and Chautauqua Association For Courtesies

This morning concluded the meeting of the Rush county Teachers' Institute, which has been holding regular morning sessions all week in the sheriff's office of the court house. This morning addresses were given by Prof. George D. Wham and Supt. E. J. Llewelyn, and following the lectures, the teachers adopted five resolutions, which are given below. Officers are not elected, as the county superintendent presides as chairman, and he appoints the secretary-treasurer.

The resolutions adopted this morning were as follows: "Resolved that the excellent address given us during the present session of the Rush County Intitute have greatly heightened in us the great responsibility and privilege of the public school teacher and that we are thereby better prepared to enter our life of service the coming school year. That we extend a vote of hearty appreciation to Prof. George D. Wham, Prof. E. J. Llewelyn and Miss Marlatt for their inspiring addresses and personal interest in our institute.

"Resolved, that we deplore the present illness of our county superintendent, C. M. George and hope for his speedy recovery. That we tender to Prof. W. E. Wagoner, who has conducted the institute in such a pleasant and business-like manner in the absence of the superintendent a vote of sincere thanks.

"Resolved, That we congratulate the Chautauqua Association for the splendid program of the week and thank it for the many favors and courtesies shown us.

"Resolved, That we favor and earnestly petition our school officials to provide complete medical and physical culture supervision for our schools.

"Recognizing that the call has come to us all alike, both man and woman, to cherish as we never have done before, the liberties which we have inherited, as the sacred possession of us all, to be held in our keeping, believing that we can best teach ideals of citizenship if men and women share equally in the social and civic life of America. Be it resolved that we heartily recommend the ratification of the Federal Suffrage Amendment by the state lgislature."

The resolutions committee was composed of Miss Belle Gregg of this city, Miss Emma Terhune of Milroy and Miss Clara Herbst.

That the annual Rush county chautauqua will close with the largest attendance on record, was the prediction today, because of the interest in the assembly this year, and the class of the talent for the closing day. In Bishop Henderson the chautauqua has one of the foremost platform and pulpit men in America, and patrons of the assembly appreciate his worth, according to comments which have been heard.

Also, on Sunday, the first instrumental numbers on this year's program will be given when the Bostonia Sextette will appear in two concerts. This organization is recommended to the local committee as above the average stringed instrument sextettes.

For uniqueness, last night's program was the best of the week, for the Mrs. Fiechtl's Alpine Singers and Yodlers and Charles C. Gorst, "The Bird Man," presented an entertainment which met with the approval of a large audience. The six Alpine Singers also appeared in the afternoon and made a very distince impression then, too.

Tonight is expected to be one of the banner nights of the week because of the interest which has been shown in the concert by the Davies Light Opera company, which is different from any other musical attraction here this year. Delegations are coming from surrounding cities for the concert. The company gave the prelude this afternoon before Lieut. Knotts' lecture and will present the comic opera "Olivette" tonight.

PRICE OF A SHAVE GOES UP

Union Barbers Announce They Will Charge 20 Cents.

Without any warning, or a chance to lay in a supply before the price advances, the union barbers of Rushville announced this afternoon that the price of a shave on and after tomorrow will be 20 cents, instead of 15 cents. Barbers accounted for the raise because everything else in proportion had gone up, including laundry and wages, so an increase was suggested in order to relieve the situation. No other changes will be made and a hair-cut may be obtained at the same old price.

Fence Facts

A well fenced farm gives character to the land and reputation to him who farms it.

No farmer with proper pride will allow his fences to run down and look shoddy.

Spring and fall are the two best times to build a fence. Neither extremely hot nor unusually cold weather is good.

Since a farmer has more spare time in fall than spring, the coming season offers the best opportunity to build and repair your fences.

The Farmers and the Spuds.

A few years ago an Alabama farmer had 1,200 bushels of sweet potatoes to sell, and a southern commission house offered him half a cent a pound for them. This was the equivalent of the price offered per bushel. At the time this offer was made sweet potatoes of an inferior grade were selling in the stores in northern states at five and six cents a pound.

Investigation showed that there was not one person or one firm that was making an uncomparable profit out of the difference between the consumer's and the producers prices. But there were altogether too many people getting some profit out of each potato. There were too many middlemen. The cost of transportation was, naturally, part of the leakage. Railroads were privately owned then and freight rates were lower than they are now, but this was not enough to bring the cost of the consumer down to the proper figure. Some kind of organization was needed to eliminate a number of the leakages, and to get the product moved to the consumer by a more direct route—in short, to remove some of the middlemen.

Getting down to the root of things, it seems logical that if a men grows a vegetable in Alabama, and a man in Michigan eats it, that at least four people should be paid something—the man who grew it, the man who transported it, the commission man who distributed it, and the retailer who sold it to the consumer. There is no excuse for other middlemen, and this limited number of handlers is not sufficient to explain the great disparity between the price received by the grower and that paid by the consumer.

It is evident that too many people who don't grow, or transport, or even retail foodstuffs have a voice in arguing what the price is to be—and get paid part of that price for arguing about it.

A New Kind of Arrogance

Suppose Germany had won the Great War and had proceeded to levy her terms upon the United States. The principal feature of those terms would have been an enormous tribute to reimburse the Germans for their war expenditures. But the economic structure of America would have realized that their terms could never be complied with unless our industries were permitted to run uninterrupted and the production of wealth allowed to continue. In short our economic structure would have been little disturbed, and the daily life of the people would have gone on as before except for the huge financial levy they would have had to meet.

But to prevent the Germans from helping themselves to our national wealth 50,000 of our boys gave up their lives, over 200,000 others suffered wounds from German bullets, and the people back home raised a fund of many billions of dollars. If that is the price we were willing to pay to prevent confiscation of our wealth, what is the estimate to be put on the very lives of our people when they are in jeopardy?

Yet that is the very situation that confronts the United States at this moment. The men who operate the railroads have presented an ultimatum to the President, to Congress, and to the country. First, they demand a further substantial increase in wages as a temporary relief from high prices, and, second, they demand the enactment of the so-called Plumb bill for reorganized railroad control that will hand the roads over to a directorate of 15, 5 of whom are appointed each by the President the operating officials, and the employees. The threat of a general tie-up of the entire railway system of the country looms ominously unless the demands are promptly complied with.

The country has never experienced a general strike on its railroads, hence has little comprehension of the catastrophe that would follow such an action on the part of the railroad operatives. Practically every industry in the country depends on the roads to carry its product to market. The prompt distribution of food is almost wholly dependent upon them. Movement of the mail is contingent solely on the running of the trains. The sudden stoppage of rail transportation means almost instant collapse of practically every activity, immediate suffering from lack of food followed by actual starvation, and universal riot by desperate individuals fighting for the very existence of themselves and their loved ones. Such a cataclysm would be infinitely worse than anything the Huns could have inflicted upon us. But we used "force without stint" against them. Shall it be said that the people are not as ready to fight for the perpetuation of the Nation and the rights of individuals against this monster that is gnawing at our vitals?

The railroad employees constitute only a part of organized labor, but organized labor itself is only about fifteen per cent of our people. Are the other eighty-five percent to permit themselves to be held up at the point of a pistol and told that the organization of the whole country must be accommodated to the demands of the few? If we must have revolution let it come now and determine at once whether government by the majority is to survive.

What the average man wants is ten dollars a day for his work and ten cents a pound for sirloin steak.

There was never a time in the history of this town when the readers of this paper were so interested in the advertising columns as they are today. With prices of everything up in the clouds, the average man or woman is keenly alive to the possibility of shaving off a cent or two in the price of necessities, and watches the ads like a hawk in the hope of finding some relief. The WISE merchant takes advantage of this and places his propositions before the people each week.

If every person in Rushville would devote thirty minutes each week to cleaning and beautifying their premises and the public highways and the vacant places we would soon be living in a veritable Garden of Eden. And it is so simple and easy, and without material cost. But, like every other proposition in life, it requires a head, a directing genius, some one to take the lead and push it along and keep it pushing.

Viola Dana in "Some Bride" will divide honors with Charles Chaplin in "Sunnyside" at the Princess tonight, which is on its second day's run and will be shown again tomorrow. "Some Bride" deals with the innocent flirtation of a young wife, and a jealous husband. Francis Bushman and Beverely Bayne will also be seen tomorrow in "The Poor Rich Man".

What' in a Name?

During a recent visit of the Marquis Mayeda of Japan and Baron Minoru Hirata to Universal City to see how motion pictures are made, they were told by the guide that Harry Carey was working on the stage they were approaching.

"Hari-kari?" queried the Marquis, the light of interest gleaming in his eye.

Harry Carey was in a scene from "Bare Fists" with Vester Pagg and Betty Schade, and the Marquis and Baron gazed on as if entranced.

"Does he cut his throat or take poison?" asked the Marquis.

"That's not in the script," replied Jack Ford, director.

"But they told us "Hari-kari," was the rejoinder.

"Why, that's the star name," said Ford.

"Ah," said the Marquis to Carey. "You are the famous Haree Caree, I see. I thought you have, maybe a scene like in—Japan—hari-kari, eh? What you call—suicide. Much resemblance in your name—ah—hari-kari—yes."

"Bare Fists" will be shown Friday at the Mystic theatre.

The tried sows are sired by Orion Cherry King, Pal's Col., American Top Col., Hamlet, Mayes Top, Defender Prince and Gilbert's Jack's Friend. Yearling gilts are sired by Hoosier Giant, Joe Orion Jumbo, Joe Orion II Again, Woodlawn Top Col., Prince Orion Jr. and Perfect Defender.

Hoosier Giant, sailing under the name of Big Joe Orion King died recently in the Enoch's Farm herd. This was a great loss to this enterprising firm, but a much greater loss to the Duroc breed. He will be recognized as one of the best breeding sons of Orion Cherry King. Sows bred to him in their last February sale averaged over $600. Inquire for their report of August 1, 1919 sale. I predict that daughters of Hoosier Giant will have a wonderful reputation as herd sows during the next few months. Better place one or two of these gilts in your herd while you have an opportunity. Send for catalogue that gives full description of the offering.

McBirney, overseer of the C. & R. R. R., was a man of perhaps too much education. His track reports to the manager were lengthy and descriptive. The manager finally wrote him: "Cut out the novals. I want short and sweet track reports. I want facts: not love letters." The reprimand was taken as a matter of fact. A week later Bush River climbed ten feet up the canon walls and for two miles the tracks were drowned under two feet of water. At 5 p. m. the overseer sent a brief wire:

"Where the tracks were the river is."

Notice to Swine Raisers

I wish to announce that I have completed arrangements with an old established firm to secure Anti-Hog Cholera Serum and Virus produced from hyper-immune hogs and pigs coming from a section of Nebraska which is comparatively free from Swine Plague, Haemorrhagis Septicemia and various mixed infections which have been very prevalent in this section of the country. From my investigations, I am firmly convinced that the use of this product will reduce the chances of hogs coming down with the above infections to a minimum.

P. S.—Orders for this serum and virus placed with me in the evening will be here ready for administration the next morning. Fresh serum all the time.

Very respectfully,

A Two ounce box of P.D.Q. makes a full quart of the best bug-killer on earth. Better than a barrel of old-fashioned bug-killer.

P.D.Q. [Pesky Devil's Quietus,] kills like a 42-centimetre shell. It settles bedbugs, fleas, roaches, ants and chicken lice, and not only kills the live pests, but the eggs as well.

P. D. Q. won't injure clothing, carpets, curtains, draperies or wall paper. Try it on the dog and see the fleas flop.

Hog & Cattle Feed For Sale

Do you know that our Whole Ground Barley is the BEST and CHEAPEST feed that you can use? This Ground Barley would cost you $67.00 per ton in less than carload lots, delivered at Rushville. For full car of Whole Ground Barley we can make the price $62.00 per ton, delivered at Rushville. This price, however, is subject to confirmation.

We were fortunate in picking up a few cars that we could sell at the above price. To replace them today would cost quite a good deal more money.

BOTH SATISFIED WITH THE VERDICT

slumped slightly forward, his chin cupped in his hand, his brow wrinkled, his right hand twitching, turning, thumb rubbing over fingers, crossing and recrossing his feet, seemingly deeply engrossed in his inquisitor and that gentleman's efforts yet caught many times mentally tinkering with some mechanical subject.

His last two days on the stand saw a stiffening against the Tribune attorney's attack. He was more cautious he succeeded in warding off many blows which before fell.

Few people, if any, have more than a general idea of what the trial cost. One mathematically inclined newspaper man who has been at the "ringside" throughout said $500,000 was spent by both litigants in actual court work. He did not include money spent by Ford in maintaining information and press bureaus. Seventeen lawyers actively were engaged in the court room, seven retained by Ford, eight by the Tribune and two representing Solomon Bros., co-defendants. Elliott G. Stevenson, senior Tribune counsel, was understood to receive between $300 and $400 a day. This was not doubted by uninterested legal men. It also was estimated no lawyer in the court room received less than $50 a day.

lose money at this price when they pay 11½.

"Whenever I get barrel sugar at 10c plus the freight I sell it at 11c," said a Rushville grocery man today, "but I can not sell package sugar for which I pay 11 and 11½ cents, at 11c. The government should get on the trial of the wholesalers and see that they keep granulated sugar at 10c before they make the public believe they should buy it for 11c. We have plenty of brown sugar at 10c a pound, but few people will use that."

One grocer said a woman complained about paying 6c a pound for potatoes, practically calling him a robber, when he paid 5½ cents a pound for the potatoes and was not profit on them.

He declared that a farmer came into his store and complained about paying 12c for granulated sugar. A traveling man overheard the conversation and volunteered the information that some stores in Connersville were selling sugar for 13 and 14 cents a pound.

Another traveling man asked a local food dealer about the alleged high prices of restaurants here. In this connection, he said that he paid 70 cents for half a cantaloupe, two piece sof toast, two eggs and a cup of coffee in Connersville that day. The Rushville dealer inquired at a local restaurant about the price of the same things here, and found it to be 35 cents.

Scorched!

It will happen at times under the eyes, even of the most responsible of "home cleaners."

It may be an overheated iron, or momentary forgetfulness—but the damage is done. The garment may be scorched beyond all further usefulness. At the very least a mark is left that no washing can ever erase. Such scorching occurs in the home because irons must be heated by fire and electricity that attain high temperatures.

But it can not take place when you send your garments to us.

Our presses are heated by steam which never becomes hot enough to scorch. If you were to hold a gossamer silk over the steaming spout of your hot water kettle, the steam would not damage the fabric. The same methods are used by us.

With its help we are able to give a beautiful lustre to your work with never a brown-tinted scar to mar it. Garments are thoroughly dry cleaned by us and then given over to the steam presser, which insures the best of work.

Maintains Progress in Stead of Settling Problems Only Makes More of Them

Maintaining that the fast progress of our nation does not settle problems but only makes more problems J. Adam Bede held his audience, yesterday afternoon at the chautauqua with his humorous lecture entitled, "Problems Arising From Our Nation's Progress." Mr. Bede proved to be quite a philosopher, and the crowd not only smiled occasionally, but laughed out aloud most of the time. He talked very fast, and took his hearers back 50 and 70 years ago when inventions were unheard of, and compared the fast traveling of the present day through man's ingenuity to what it was in the olden days.

He at first praised the smaller towns for being really more familiar with the great events that were going on in the world than the larger cities. He illustrated this point by exclaiming, "The larger cities today don't konw what a chautauqua is, and most of them think it is a new kind of an automobile."

Mr. Bede's idea throughout his lecture was to call to the notice of his hearers all the wonderful inventions and new methods of living of the last seventy-five or one hundred years and then to show how each one of these inventions and new methods has brought about its corresponding problems and a readjustment of life to meet that problem. He discussed the telegraph, the cable, the railroad, the printing machine, typewriter, automobile airplane, rural delivery and all the various forms of machinery used on the farm, showing how they have changed our manner of living, our contact with our neighbors and the world and how they have brought great fortunes to some men, fortunes which we should not be envious of because they have brought the comforts and many of the luxuries to all American citizens.

"It took 6,000 years to find out which end to put the hole in the needle, and by the time they found it out, someone had invented the sewing machine," continued the orator, and "Today you wouldn't want to go back those many years, and be without a modern sewing device. Every invention, if you would stop and think, has made someone a millionaire, yet you wouldn't prejudice yourself, and do without them, just because you wasn't the person who made the million."

Mr. Bede continued, "When I was a boy—I say boy, because 'kid' was not invented yet, mother didn't know what a cream separator was and she would wait all night for the cream to rise, but today, dairymen want the cream right away, and sure enough they can get it." He explained that all modern inventions had taken time and had cost a great deal of money. Mr. Bede said that it cost the kaiser a great deal more money to discover America than it did Christopher Columbus.

He classified the problems of our nations under three heads—the problems of progress, the problems of ignorance, and the problems of prejustice. The problems of progress, he said, are to be solved by adjustment to new conditions, the problems of ignorance by a fine system of education, and the problems of prejudice, in social, political and religious life, by freeing our hearts of all hatred. He said there was a new kind of hatred coming into the world and that was the hatred of the hun, but he went onto explain that, though he knew all that the huns had done, we could not go on hating forever without doing harm to ourselves and causing conditions which will result in another future and terrible war. He closed with the idea that our young people, growing up with their ideals of patriotism and learning daily of the struggles and wonderful progress of our beloved country, will be amply able to care for its future.

Some of the interesting pieces of philosophy which he brought out were:

"I once heard a lecturer tell a lady who was tussling with a crying baby trying to keep it quiet by covering it up, that, 'Madam, what that baby needs is board—not lodging.'"

"Farming is becoming so easy nowadays that the farmer must erect a gymnasium on his farm, in order to give his hands the proper kind of exercise,"

"I was raised a Baptist, and still cling somewhat to that faith, but as I grow older, I don't care whether my sins are washed or dry-cleaned."

"If were to find the genesis of this nation, we must go back to the very beginning of time."

"We could not hold these forty-eight states together if it were not for the railroad and telegraph."

"So long as the black man was a slave there was no race problem, but as soon as he was freed the subject of equality came up."

"We have met the problems of the past, we are meeting the problems of the present, and our children will be able to meet the problems of the future. The problems of the future will be met in a way we lit-

One Car All Women Like

H

WE are frequently told by women in this city that they prefer the Hupmobile to any other car they have driven.

They like the ease with which they handle it, wherever they go.

They like its snappy pick-up and the way it goes through when they step on the pedal.

They say they rarely have to shift gears, except when starting from a dead stop.

Above all, they like its downright reliability. They all say they have never had a car so wholly dependable and faithful.

We speak of these things now for the guidance of women who already drive their own cars, and those who would like to do that.

High Cost of Living

A large per cent of the expense of producing the necessities of life is represented by

THE COST OF FARM MACHINERY. THEN WHY LET IT RUST OUT?

A machine in a factory will operate continuously for twenty years, ten hours every day.

A farm implement will be used only a few days each year for five or six years.

The reason is the DIFFERENCE IN CARE. Why let a $150.00 Wagon set out in the weather? Why use a $300 Binder for a chicken roost?

RIFLE MATCHES STARTED TODAY

Are an Aftermath of Smaller and Less Interesting Competition Among Sportsmen.

TEAMS ALL OVER WORLD HERE

Most Interesting of National Matches Will be Two Shot off For Trophies Coveted by Teams

Caldwell, N. J., Aug. 15—The mot important national rifle championship matches that ever have taken place in this country got under way here to-day on the new rifle range constructed for the naval department. The navy has charge of the matches this year, an innovation considering that the matches always have been considered as belonging to the army. Marine corps officers, mainly, are in charge.

The matches beginning to-day are an aftermath of smaller and less interesting competition that has been going on for some time. Teams from Belgium, Egland and many other foreign countries now are here to meausre skill with the best this country can muster, which is considerable measuring considering that the A. E. F. team recently defeated everything the Allies could trot out in competition on the other side.

The most interesting of the national matches will be two shot off for trophies covete dby rifle teams everywhere. The first is for the Wimbledon cup, presented the United States in 1878 by Princess Louise of Great Britain. This trophy goes to the champion long distance shot.

The Leech cup is the oldest rifle trophy in the country. It was a gift of Capt. Arthur Blennerhasset Leech, who was captain of the Irish team that competed with the Americans in 1874.

Military champion of the United States is the title that goes with the winning of the president's match. The winner also receives an autographed letter from the President.

The Marine Corps cup match is open to everyone and always attracks a large number of entrants.

tle dream of today. Time would solve all our problems if we would only wait. The kind of a world we want is one we can make a little better each day and, each year, and make it stay better."

"The world has become a whispering gallery: every nation is but a suburb of the United States."

"You'd arrest a farmer now for cruelty to his crop, if he'd thresh it the way they did seventy-five years ago. We read about 'The Man with a Hoe,' but we never see a man using a hoe now. You can't sell a farmer anything now that he can't sit down on."

"Stop thinking in small and local units and think in terms of nations and the world: it is only by thinking in this way that the big problems will be solved. The president of the U. S. is as a light set upon a hill, toward which the eyes of the world are turned.

"It is a wonderful thing to be born into the English language, not because it is better than any other but because it is spoken in every country of the world."

"Every man is the architect of his own fortune, but we never speak of a man being the architect of his misfortune—he blames that on somebody else."

"Why do so many people think that everything in the world is going wrong? Largely because we read too much of the wrong that happens and too little about the great and good things. It is the unusual thing that is printed."

"Fifty years ago you could not hold a union meeting of the Protestant denominations, but now the church has laid aside its differences and religion is moving on. It doesn't make any difference what denomination you belong to, so you have a leaning toward christianity."

"I have always believed in two great parties—one party to be in power and the other almost; one party to run the government and the other to watch and see that it runs it right. We need watchers as much as we need workers. The democratic party has made a good watcher."

"This is American politics, 'Making some one else move on and then warm yourself where they lay.'"

"What would I do with the kaiser? I'd turn him over to Ireland and then set Ireland free.

Facts About Serum

We are the only firm in Rush County administering Carotid Bled Serum. Carotid Bled Serum means one outright bleeding from the throat of a serum producing hog. Tail bled serum means three bleedings from the tail and in 30 days a final throat bleeding. This tail bled method produces twice the amount of serum and necessitates a larger dose of serum than the Carotid Bled method.

We are willing to hold any test to prove the higher potency of Carotid Bled Serum. Any truthful tail bled serum producer will tell you that tail bled serum produces more serum but is less potent, than the Carotid Bled Serum. In the past four years 25 tail bled serum companies have failed. We will gladly compare the official record of our serum firm with any tail bled serum company in the United States.

You know the cost of hogs and can find out how much serum they should bleed. Then if any person is vaccinating for a price that is not reasonable with the cost of production (either too cheap or too high) we state this fact—something is wrong, and worth your investigation. We must state facts to have your confidence. We have not had a single cholera break in 1919.

Since our last advertisement fourteen Thorntown Serum users have engaged us to vaccinate their hogs. Facts are facts.

We respectfully solicit your investigation of the foregoing and your patronage.

A Fertilizer Bargain

MANURE, properly handled, is worth several dollars a ton. It replaces some fertilizers you would otherwise buy and it makes the soil rich in humus.

But to prevent rain from leaching out its nitrogen and potash, its most valuable content, you need a concrete manure pit. With a pit there is practically no loss.

Let us show you plans and give you a cost estimate for a concrete pit that will save the half that now goes to waste in the barnyard. It is a small investment but a big saving.

MEXICAN BORDER STILL VERY WET

Nationwide Prohibition May Offer Hard Problem to Peace Officer In Inland States

BOOOZE SMUGGLING FINE ART

Mexican Can Cross Rio Grande at Night and Dispose of Wares and Back by Morning

(By United Press.)

Laredo, Tex., Aug. 15—Enforcement of nation-wide prohibition may offer a hard problem to peace officers in the inland states but their job is a sinecure to that of federal officials trying to keep the American side of the Mexican border dry.

Prohibition in the United States has offered a means of wealth to hundreds of adventursome spirits along the Rio Grande and booze smuggling is being made a fine art.

All the fiery Mexican drinks—mescal, aguardiente and tequila—sell readily in the states and smuggling is comparatively easy since the twelve hundred odd miles of border generally is sparsely settled and patrolled only by small military units.

The wily Mexican, trailing his mescal in bladders, hog skins and goat skins, wades the Rio Grande at night, disposes of his wares and is back in Mexico again long before the dawn. When the mescal lacks punch, he spikes it with red pepper, onions or drugs and the result is a knock-out which backs Jack Dempsey's uppercuts in the shade.

Spiked soda water is another means of avoiding detection. Recently a Mexican, with a cargo of apparently harmless, pink, soda-water, was stopped by customs agents, who sampled his wares. The soda water was pink in appearances only. It's kick beat any American "Red-Eye" known.

In one week recently, in the town of Alice, Jim Wells County, customs agents found more than 300 quarts of mescal.

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief To Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers

Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the doubters and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome.

He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common yet miserable disease.

And best of all this remedy costs almost nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Mentholized Arcine at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled.

Then gargle as directed and twice daily snuff or spray each nostril thoroughly.

That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work; but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using.

If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwelcome yearly visitor fails to appear.

POINTS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT AUTOMOBILE TIRES

(By A. L. Murray, president of The Double Fabric Tire Company.)

The modern pneumatic automobile tire ought to be called "The 8th Wonder of the World," for, as one man expressed it, the real wonder is, not that they give out once in a while, but rather that anything made of cotton fabric and rubber can stand the work an automobile tire is put to.

Tires carry about as much "pressure" (60 to 90 lbs.) as commonly used in a steam boiler—yet the boiler has only to "stand still" while the tire has to whiz over all kinds of roads, over rocks, bumps and railroad tracks at 25 to 40 miles an hour—sometimes properly inflated and sometimes sticking out on both sides like a man with double mumps.

Despite this hard service and the thousands of road accidents to which a tire is subject, it is surprising how very few strictly high quality tires fail to make good big mileage.

The owner's part in the obtaining of large mileage resolves itself into first buying of the best possible tire and then in giving it reasonable care in the important matters of keeping up pressure—avoiding excessive blows, stones, etc., as much as practical and prompt repair or reinforcement of numerous damages.

In the selecting of "what tire to buy" it is first necessary to remember that tires like shoes, hats or clothes are made in the three grades of "cheap," "medium" and "extra fine" and that "best service" and in the long run "lowest cost" always follows "best quality."

The purpose of this article then, is to provide the owner with more "definite" information about tires than manufacturers usually give in the belief that this will not only be appreciated but that it will also actually help the owner more than any other one thing.

What "Quality" Means.

"Quality" is a word so often misapplied to even the cheapest tires, that it recalls the Aesop fable of the boy who hollered "Wolf! Wolf!" when there wasn't any wolf—with the result that when a real live one came down the pike nobody heard him and the wolf ate the boy all up.

"Quality" in tires, however, consists of certain absolutely definite things about which (as owners become better posted) they will probably demand more definite statements.

Two "Kinds" of Fabric Used.

The strength of a tire—which means its ability to resist damage for the longest possible time—depends primarily on the strength of the fabric or cord of which it is made—and of the quantity used.

There are two principal grades of fabric, which are commonly used in the production of probably 95% of all automobile tires.

The best and strongest of these is what is known as Egyptian Fabric—being fabric woven (in this country) from imported long fiber cotton grown along the Nile River—the rich overflow soil of which produces a cotton especially adapted to give long service in tires—due both to its long fiber and also to the extra large number of little branches or spurs which give a twisted strand of Egyptian cotton its ability to hold together exceptionally long, under the constant "flexing" of tire use.

The other, or second grade, is what is commonly known as American or "peeler" fabric—a material which costs factories 10% to 12½% less than Egyptian.

The total amount of Egyptian cotton imported into this country (after deducting amounts known to be used in other trades, such as fine hosiery, etc.,) is so small as to indicate plainly that the great bulk of tires today necessarily must be using the cheaper or "peeler" grade.

The important point between the two grades of fabric is not that a fair tire cannot be made of "peeler" fabric, but simply that a tire NEEDS the extreme limit of DURABILITY—and this Egyptian fabric gives.

How Many Plies.

A tire can "get by" with only the number of plies of fabric used in tires sold at so-called standard prices which give you 3½-inch sizes made only 4 ply thick—4-inch sizes 5 ply thick—4½-inch sizes 6 ply thick and 5-inch sizes 7 ply thick.

Most tires are built to only the above number of plies and belong to what the trade call the regular or "nonextra ply" class, but gradually one tire company after another has been compelled by the exceptional success and exceptional mileage records of the "extra ply" tires to go to a higher schedule until today no tire is really in the extra quality, extra long mileage class unless it is built to the new schedule of 3½-inch sizes built 5 ply thick—4-inch 6 ply—4½-inch 7 ply and 5-inch 8 ply. Well known tires of the definite extra ply class are—Kelly Springfield, Hood, Mohawk and the Nobby Tread tire of the United States.

In short, this "extra ply" construction gives the strongest fabric body that can be built in a tire and a durability which "one less ply" cannot produce.

It is not difficult to tell "whether" any given tire is built of Egyptian fabric and with one extra ply, or not, for you can safely "bet your old hat" that if they are so made, the makers will let you know about it definitely and positively in their advertising.

There are, of course, many ways of "camouflaging," that cost much less than actually to use "Egyptian fabric and one extra ply"—such things as "wonderful service"—"finest quality fabric"—"enormous factory production," etc.—but when a jeweler sells you something that is "18 Karat Gold" you can count on it that he will take particular pains to show you the "18 K" mark—while if its only 14 or 12 he'll look out of the window, or show you the beautiful "engraving."

The Importance of Para Rubber.

Rubber is one of those few God given natural products, which like "untarnished" gold—like the "warmth" of wool, has certain properties peculiar to itself not found in any other article, and which therefore probably never will be successfully imitated or substituted.

In rubber this peculiar natural property is wonderful strength, combined with what we term its "elasticity" (or the ability to stretch to a wonderful degree—millions of times, and yet come back to its original length) and combined with this are the equally wonderful properties—that it is impervious to water and practically unaffected by any ordinary degrees of either heat or cold.

Some idea of the strength of Pure Para Rubber and its wonderful elasticity and also of the utter futility of trying to get true rubber merit by adding to it or substituting any other material, can be gathered from the fact that to pass Government requirements (which are always set high) a tube must stretch not less than 7½ times its length before breaking (in other words, 1 inch length must stretch to 8½ inches long)—while some idea of how fine rubber can be made when it is all pure Para and properly cured is gained from the fact that the U. S. Bureau of Standards test on our own Brazil Rubber Inner Tube shows that it stretched a little over 10 times its length before breaking.

In a "highest possible quality" tread stock (in which elasticity is needed to cushion the road shocks—combined with great wear quality) the best tread is made by using the highest possible percentage of pure Para Rubber combined with just enough of oxide of zinc to give extreme toughness against wear—the high Government requirement being that it shall stretch not less than 4½ times its length before breaking—our tread (Bureau of Standard test) showing a 6¾ times stretch before breaking.

What "Rubber" Does In a Tire.

The first and one of the most vitally important uses of rubber in a tire is to HOLD THE PLIES TOGETHER—since we depend upon the united strength of all the plies to resist blowouts, and if "separation" occurs between any of the plies—the life of the tire will be greatly shortened.

There are three vital things in holding the plies together—the first being, that the rubber must be so thoroughly pressed down into the fabric from both sides that it will meet together in the intercises (or little holes between the threads) thus forming little rubber rivets which join the rubber on one side of the fabric to the rubber on the other side.

The extreme importance of getting these little rivets as large or fat as possible and of having them of the very toughest and strongest rubber can be understood when it is explained that separation between two plies of fabric almost invariably takes the form of simply pulling the rubber out of the fabric by the breaking of these little rubber rivets—due to their being too small or too weak.

To gain exceptional strength at this vital point we first obtain a greater than usual toughness in the rubber itself by making it all pure Para in place of mixing it with some softer, cheaper rubber, as is commonly done, to make the calendar work "easier." Starting out with the greatest possible strength of the rubber itself, we have then developed a process of our own which by actual test puts 17% more rubber right down into the fabric—thus making the little rubber rivets both very much larger and stronger—with the result that separation of the plies in AUBURN tires is practically unheard of.

The next important use of rubber in a tire is to form an elastic body between the plies, which will allow the necessary motion between the plies as the tire constantly "flexes," and here again the long life and durability of the tire and the holding of the plies together without separation are dependent entirely on using rubber having the very last notch of toughness, strength and durability—which again is obtained and can only be obtained by the use of the purest possible Para. Our sworn-to Government affidavit made at the time of soliciting war orders, shows that this rubber in AUBURN tires is 91% pure Para, which with the necessary sulphur to cure leaves practically nothing but pure Para rubber, and is well above even the high Government requirements of 75% to 85% Para.

The next step in rubber's use is to join and hold the tread of the tire to the fabric carcass. One of the hardest things in tire building and which has given all the factories some trouble, but which we have fully conquered by the use of a stock between the tread and carcass which combines a little of each, and thus joins perfectly with both—plus a certain carefully developed further refinement of our own which has given the remarkable result of more than twice the high tread cling strength required in the highest government specifications.

The final step in rubber's use is to make a tread so "live" that it will constantly form a resiliant protecting cushion to prevent damaging road shocks from reaching the fabric and that will outwear the tire itself.

Right here, a misconception on the part of owners (or perhaps it should even be called a certain unfairness) has acted to prevent factories from making a tread as tough as they could—for the simple reason that if the tread wears out about the same time that the fabric of the tire is due to give out, the customer is satisfied because his tire "looks worn out," and he therefore feels that the fabric has lasted as long as could be expected.

While if the tread is made to that extreme toughness which a high percentage of Para rubber scientifically cured can produce, the tread will only wear off about 1-32 of an inch per thousand miles of normal use, with the result that tires which have gone 5,000 to 7,000 miles, WILL OFTEN NOT HAVE EVEN THE NON-SKIDS WORN SMOOTH—with the perhaps natural result that if something then happens to the tire the owner jumps to the conclusion that the fabric "must have been rotten"—although, he would have been fairly well satisfied if the tread had only been WORN OFF more. Admitting the difficulty of overcoming this popular "impression," and that it gives an opportunity for the unscrupulous and unfair dealer or owner to demand unfair adjustments, we yet have the nerve to make our tread AS TOUGH AS WE KNOW HOW, because of the important point that one of the big purposes of a tread is to save the carcass of the tire from road shocks, and this vital "protecting of the fabric" result is only obtained where the tread is so tough and wears so little that it continues to keep a thick cushion of live rubber between the fabric and the road. The AUBURN TREAD BY SWORN GOVERNMENT AFFIDAVIT IS 81% pure Para, (the balance being oxide of zinc with necessary sulphur to cure), making the PUREST RUBBER tread we know of.

The Bead of a Tire.

There is a whole science in itself in the building of a tire bead, so that there will be no rim cuts no matter how long the tire is used—excepting that small to be expected percentage which is bound to occur where tires are run under-inflated or accidentally run flat. The secret of proper bead construction lies in doing the extra work, or in other words, putting in the extra cost of molding and semi-curing each bead first before it is built in the tire, so that it is bound to be correctly placed and to keep its proper shape—most bead trouble being due to hasty factory methods of laying the bead in its raw or crude form, and then trusting to luck that it will form to "about" the right shape in the molding of the full tire. It's a practice, however, that is dying out, and because of it, rim cuts are becoming comparatively rare. In our own tire, we have been particularly fortunate in this respect, with the reputation of having the bead right from the very start.

Methods of Building Tires.

There are two methods of building tires, which are commonly called "machine built" and "hand built." The "machine built" tire helps in the matter of making extreme large production practical—because less dependent on skilled labor, and therefore something which can be more quickly increased during the rush season and more readily laid off at dull times. As far as the article produced is concerned both methods can probably build a good tire, but just as a "hand built" shoe and tailored suit of clothes has never YET been excelled—if indeed it can be equalled by the "machine made" goods, so it is safe to count on the fact that a "hand built" tire is equally "unexcelled."

Different Methods of Curing Tires.

Practically all tires are made either by the "full molded" or "wrapped tread" process, there being in truth, no particular choice between the two, since a thoroughly fine tire can be built by either process, providing only, the proper care is taken throughout, from the handling of the crude rubber up. Practical proof of which is found in the fact that among the best known tires—both of extra quality and of so called standard quality, the tires which have shown best results do not belong either to the one class or the other—but are about equally divided.

The advantages which we (and some of the highest grade manufacturers in the country) believe lie in the full moulded process, is that the tire being completely built of uncured stock, all parts then are naturally and perfectly united while under heavy pressure and softened by heat—while the "double cure" process has the tread "semi-cured" and presents some of the same difficulties to good union that you would get if you tried to join two sections of partly baked bread.

But neither "moulded," "wrapped" or "double cure" process can alone give a tire materially more mileage. That in truth lies—not in any one thing or feature—but rather in making each and every step—liberally right.

BERLIN FACING A COAL FAMINE

Serious Problem to Supply Industries, Railroads and Homes with Sufficient Fuel.

NO SURPLUS FROM LAST YEAR.

Officials Predict That Industry Will Not Reach Anything Like Normal Rate Until Next Year.

By CARL D. GROAT.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Berlin, (By Mail.)—German officialdom sees ahead the specter of serious coal shortage.

Just as all Europe has suffered, and will suffer again, the coming winter, because of lowered coal output, so Germany anticipates that she faces a serious problem in supplying industries, railroads, gas works, and homes with sufficient coal.

Recently the economic ministry and officials of the states have come together to consider the outlook. And the first result of their deliberations was to let the public know that the situation is thoroughly serious.

For the first five months of the year the German coal production ran only 60 per cent as much as in the same period a year ago. And, in addition to this fact, she had no surplus from the previous year, and during June and July had to contend with railroad strikes which seriously hampered coal deliveries. From time to time, there have been mine strikes, and on the whole there is a lowered morale and a decreased staff in the coal industry.

At present, the railroads and gas works are living from hand to mouth as regards their supply of coals. In these circumstances, and with only slight prospect that coal production the remainder of the year can be speeded up the officials felt that the prospects for winter are, indeed, dubious.

Moreover, the fact that the peace treaty calls for abandonment of certain coal territory and for certain coal deliveries to France makes the problem, as far as Germany is concerned, one of increased difficulty.

Officials predict that industry will not reach anything like a normal rate of production until well into next year, if then, unless a far larger coal supply can be turned out.

While France's coal production fell off because of ruined mines and decreased labor power, Germany's production has been decreasing through decreased labor power and through lessened morale. There has been much dissatisfaction among the miners, and their demands earlier in the year required shorter hours and more pay. With the coming of winter, transportation naturally will be worse than it is now, so that Germany's problem at present is to get her mines going as fully as possible and to repair her run down rolling stock in order to get as much coal out as possible before cold weather sets in.
